

ILDA Websites and Passwords

ILDA has two websites, run by different systems. Each system has its own way of handling usernames and passwords. This color-coded chart explains these systems. Green = Public, Yellow = Public but account registration required, Red = Members Only.

Main ILDA website

www.laserist.org

This is ILDA's main news and information site. The public can access most of the pages at ILDA's website.

However, there are some pages which are only for Members. To find them, look on the left side of any page for the blue "For ILDA Members" heading. Under this will be the "Members-Only pages" menu:

Click on this to see a large fly-out menu listing the Members-Only pages. Most of these pages are password-protected.

Password-protected Members-Only pages

The first time you try to go to a password-protected Members-Only page, you are asked to enter a username and password. You can find this by logging onto the ILDA Member Management website. Look for the menu with an ILDA logo and the words "Members-Only pgs". Go to this page to find the current username and password.

Your browser will cache the username and password, so they are not needed for subsequent visits.

ILDA Member Management website and Online Store

www.laserist.org/mm (redirects to site)

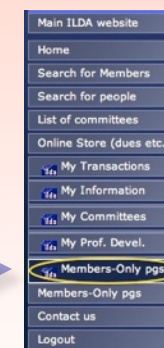

This site contains ILDA's membership database. It also has an Online Store where anyone can buy Memberships and other products such as Conference and course registrations, copies of past ILDA Awards, etc.

Member Management/Online Store account

Anyone joining ILDA or buying from the Online Store needs to create an account. When you create an account, the email address you give becomes your username, and you can create a password. This is private -- ILDA cannot see it -- so please remember it. (If you should forget it, click the "Forgot your Password?" link on the login page.)

Pages that only Members can access

If you are a current ILDA Member, after you log in you will see menus on the left with small ILDA logos. These take you to pages where you can look at past purchases, change your database information, etc.

One of these menus (circled at left) is very helpful. It takes you to a page which tells you the username and password for the Members-Only pages at the main ILDA website.
